Tearful Thieu resigns as S. Viet president

SAIGON (AP) — A tearful President Nguyen Van Thieu resigned tonight in an eleventh-hour bid for a settlement with Communist-led forces who have driven almost to the gates of Saigon. He bitterly accused the United States of moves that he claimed "led the South Vietnamese people to death."

The Viet Cong had demanded Thieu's ouster as a first step toward talks. But some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam so favors the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong, who have taken three-quarters of the country, it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

In Paris, the Viet Cong delegation called for a total U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam and the establishment of a national concord regime in Saigon. The French government urgently called for talks between South Vietnam and the Viet Cong to set up such a regime to settle the political future of the embattled country.

At Clark Air Base in the Philippines, meanwhile, about 1,000 Americans and Vietnamese arrived in the largest such airlift yet from South Vietnam. U.S. officials reportedly bypassed South Vietnamese immigration officials to put many of the Vietnamese aboard. Other Vietnamese evacuees arrived in Guam.

Although the Viet Cong had repeatedly demanded Thieu's ouster, there was no indication it would bring an immediate halt to the fighting that has swept closer and closer to Saigon.

Despite Thieu's decision to resign, some U.S. experts say that fighting in South Vietnam so favors the Communist-led forces that it is doubtful they would be willing to negotiate even with Thieu gone.

Thieu said South Vietnam could not win militarily and blamed the United States for its failure, saying Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was unable to perceive that the 1973

Paris agreement "led the South Vietnamese people to death."

Thieu himself declared, "There will be more challenges and fierce fighting in the near future."

Thieu, 52, named Vice President Tran Van Huong, 71, to succeed him and told the nation in a 90-minute television address that the new government "shall take its briefcase to the negotiating table." But there was speculation that Huong, who is in poor health and virtually blind, would resign along with the entire Cabinet and that 61-year-old Tran Van Lam, the president of the Senate, would become president.

Huong, in a brief address that followed Thieu's 90-minute speech, called on the South Vietnamese people to unite "because we will die if we do otherwise. If we do not help ourselves, then our hope for the assistance of others is hopeless."

Thieu stepped down as 10 Communist-led divisions threatened Saigon. Radio contact was lost with government forces under heavy attack at Xuan Loc, the gateway to the capital 40 miles east of Saigon, and still another province on the coast 35 miles farther east apparently was about to fall.

In his televised address, Thieu said, "I told President Nixon and the U.S. Congress that I did not demand an indefinite assistance but only assistance for five years so we can develop our economy."

"I said I was like a newly recovered patient and if I am given enough medicines soon, I will be strong enough. But later the internal affairs of the U.S. prevented the Republic of Vietnam from getting sufficient assistance."

"While the assistance is insufficient and the 300,000 North Vietnamese still in South Vietnam continue to receive tanks and artillery pieces from the Soviet Union and Red China, repair their airfields and establish more infantry divisions, South Vietnam stands under a defensive position, unable to do much, unable to bomb North Vietnam because of the lack of military aid."

"We could not back up our defense lines because we did not have enough helicopters, ammunition, weapons, and we had to retreat, and we were blamed for not being capable of defending the land."

Continuing his bitter attack on the U.S. government, Thieu referring to American troop presence in the South, said:

"Half a million (American) troops and $300 billion can't win over the Communists. The ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) lack of B52s and others means let (South Vietnamese) soldiers die. It is an inhumane act."

Thieu said the United States was the "champion of freedom" and in one year would celebrate its 200th anniversary. He said sarcastically that the $300 million in supplemental aid requested for his government but not yet approved by Congress "was only 10 days of fighting time for U.S. troops here."

He said U.S. aid cuts led to disastrous South Vietnamese retreats and casualties that gave up 50 per cent of South Vietnam's land and half of its 20 million population to the Communist side. Other sources, however, say three-quarters of South Vietnam are under the control of Communist-led forces.

There was speculation that Thieu's successor, Huong, who is in poor health and virtually blind, would resign along with the entire Cabinet and that 61-year-old Tran Van Lam, the president of the Senate, would become president.

Thieu acknowledged in his television address that South Vietnam has lost 50 per cent of its land — other officials put it at 75 per cent — and half of its 20 million population to the Communist side.

Thieu said that in 1973, at the time of the signing of the Paris agreement, he asked the United States to prevent North Vietnamese aggression if there was another "invasion," to recognize Saigon as the sole legitimate government in the South, and to assure sufficient aid for the South Vietnamese to defend themselves.

He said former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew flew to Saigon then "but guaranteed only the first two points. There was nothing about the third point (aid) and I started to have some doubts."

Comes too late, think some U.S. officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu removes a major publicly stated obstacle to a negotiated peace in South Vietnam, but some U.S. officials said today they think it may have come too late.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met for an hour and five minutes at the White House with President Ford to discuss the implications of Thieu's resignation. Kissinger refused to answer reporters' questions about developments in South Vietnam.

But White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said at a regular briefing following the meeting: "The United States expects to be working with the new (South Vietnamese) government." He added that Ford thinks his $1-billion aid request for Saigon still should be approved.

By voice vote and with limited debate, the Senate adopted a resolution calling for negotiations for a cease-fire in Vietnam and urging Ford and Kissinger to ask "all Vietnamese parties to reopen discussion toward implementation of the Paris Peace accords."

Nessen declined comment about whether the United States had put any pressure on Thieu to resign or about whether this country had played any role in developments leading to the turnover of the Saigon government to Thieu's vice president.

"It sounds like a cliché," one State Department official said. "But Saigon is just hanging there, ripe for the picking. I can't see why they would wait and let the fruit fall when they can just reach for it now."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger headed for the White House for an early meeting with President Ford to discuss the implications of Thieu's resignation.

While U.S. officials declined immediate public comment, one told a newsmen, "Things will happen now." He declined to be specific, but appeared to refer to at least some brightening of prospects for a negotiated settlement.

Initial congressional reaction anticipated the possibility of a negotiated settlement but no increase in the prospect of any massive new military aid for the Saigon government.

The ranking Republican on the House International Relations Committee, Rep. William S. Broomfield of Michigan, said he does not think Thieu's resignation will have any effect on getting any military aid from Congress.

"As far as getting any military aid," that's over," Broomfield said. "I just feel the members have already made up their minds regardless of what happens over there."

Broomfield said he believes the only aid Congress will approve will be evacuation money and humanitarian aid up for votes Tuesday in both the House and Senate.

One possible step toward a negotiated settlement would be to attempt to establish a coalition government among the North Vietnamese, the Viet Cong and remaining elements of the Thieu government.

Cost of mailing in balance

Postal unions begin pay negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of mailing a letter is in the balance as contract talks begin between the Postal Service and four unions representing 600,000 workers.

Postal officials have said the cost of the settlement will help fix the size of the postal rate increase planned later this year.

In the talks that begin today, the unions are determined to win a hefty hike in wages and benefits in what the Ford administration says is "the most important collective bargaining agreement" this year.

Because the settlement will be watched closely by other unions facing negotiations later this year and in 1976, the Council on Wage and Price Stability has announced it will "monitor" the talks for their potential inflationary impact.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar has warned that "an excessive pay package coming out of collective bargaining would contribute to price inflation" and could lead to job losses.

The Postal Service expects to wind up the current fiscal year June 30 with a deficit of more than $800 million. Although officials are concerned that higher rates could lead to a decline in mail usage and further reduce revenues, they have already announced the need to increase the price of a first-class 10-cent stamp to 12 or 13 cents.

The exact amount hinges on the size of the new contract, they say.

The current pact expires July 21, but because of long ratification procedures, bargainers will be pressed to reach a settlement several weeks earlier. The unions are prohibited by law from striking, but several have adopted a "no-contract, no-work" stance.

Involved in the talks along with the Letter Carriers union are the 300,000-member American Postal Workers Union; the Mailhandlers Division of the Laborers International Union with 47,000 members, and the 46,000-member National Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Bernard Cushman, chief negotiator for the four unions, says that postal workers earn anywhere from 74 cents to $1.94 an hour less than employees of United Parcel Service, the government's chief competitor.

Darrell Brown, Cushman's counterpart at the Postal Service, contends wages are already comparable with private industry.

Postal workers, who won a $1,100-a-year increase two years ago plus semiannual cost-of-living adjustments, currently earn a top of about $12,000, excluding fringe benefits.

Supreme Court hearing argument on death penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 200 lives are at stake as the Supreme Court prepares to hear an argument that the death penalty is unconstitutional because it is cruel and unusual punishment.

If the court makes a broad ruling that the death penalty in any form is unconstitutional, more than 200 prisoners on death rows in prisons around the United States would be spared.

The court is hearing oral arguments today in the appeal of Jesse T. Fowler, a 27-year-old janitor from Raleigh, N.C., who shot and killed a friend in July 1973 after an argument that started in a dice game.

Fowler is represented by the Legal Defense Fund, Inc. Arguing his case is Anthony Amsterdam, a law professor at Stanford University.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork and North Carolina Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy will argue in favor of upholding the death penalty.

In a lengthy brief submitted earlier, the defense contends the death penalty is a misfortune that befalls only the "outcasts of society."

The brief states that arbitrary judgments by police, prosecutors, judges and juries still tend to make administration of capital punishment capricious.

Caprice was an important element in the court's 1972 decision in Furman vs. Georgia when a 5-4 majority held that juries acted too capriciously in deciding which men to condemn and which to sentence to life imprisonment.

Because all states with death penalties at that time gave juries that power, all condemned inmates were given life sentences instead as a result of the court's ruling.

Shortly afterwards, states began devising ways to restore the death penalty within the limits of the Furman decision. North Carolina was one of the first to do so, and it removed the element of caprice by making death the only possible penalty for a capital crime.

To date, 70 North Carolinians have been condemned under this mandatory procedure. Of the 30 states that have adopted new death penalty statutes, North Carolina has the largest death-row population.

Girl tied up and home is looted

Three men are being sought today by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies after they tied up a Dixon girl and ransacked a home in Henson Subdivision.

According to early reports, a man came to the house rented by Chris Davis and Michael Hess and asked to use the telephone after Nancy Walters answered the door. The man said his car had broken down and, after using the phone in the kitchen, he left.

A short time later he returned and asked to use the phone a second time. When he went to the phone he pulled the cord from the wall and then, along with two companions, tied and gagged the Walters girl, putting her in the bathroom before ransacking the house. The man also allegedly pulled a knife on the girl when he entered the house the second time.

Taken from the house were a stereo, color television and various other items.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the incident, which occurred about 10:30 this morning.

Break-in probed

The Lee County Sheriff's Department is investigating a break-in at the B and B Fertilizer Supply Co., Franklin Grove.

The break-in, at the store located on Ill. 38 east of Franklin Grove, occurred some time Friday night and was reported Saturday. Entry to the building was gained by prying a lock off a door. Taken in the break-in were various tool boxes and tool sets. The value of the tools has not been determined.

Palestinian question faces Israel

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

As the Geneva Conference looms, nothing could be more obvious than that the Israeli impasse cannot be relieved unless and until Israel meets head on the question of the Palestine Arabs that Israel evicted.

It is utterly impossible for Israel to sweep the issue under the rug.

First, there are many more Palestine Arabs than supposed: approximately 2.5 million. Israel's population is three million and 470,000 of the Palestinians live in Israel. The protest riots of some are dramatically in the news. There are 900,000 in Jordan on the East Bank of the Jordan River and 640,000 on the West Bank. There are 320,000 in Lebanon, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia and 200,000 in Syria.

As you see, these Palestinians are now far flung, but most of them still live in refugee camps in Jordan, Lebanon and Syria. These alone total 1.5 million. As a matter of fact, the United States pays $23 million annually to support them through the United Nations Relief and Works Agency. We pay nearly 40 per cent of the UNRWA's $60-million annual budget.

The Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), led by Cairo-educated Yasser Arafat, is their rallying point. They have had no political life—until the PLO came along. They are the victims of three wars and potentially the cause of another. For yesterday's Arab refugees are today's guerrillas who, in a great oversimplification, feel that Israel deprives them of their birthright.

"Insha'allah" (God willing) is the key word and philosophy in the Arab world. They call their Israel confrontation the Sira'a ("The Historic Struggle") and all Arabs are willing to pay high for what they call their "akhad taro"—their revenge.

Arab terrorists, in turn, have done the Palestinian cause immense harm. To the horror of the world, guerrilla organization offshoots of the PLO committed one ghastly, unspeakable atrocity after another.

As one result, Israel refuses to deal with the PLO at Geneva or anywhere, although the Arab world's Rabat Declaration gave the PLO, not Jordan, responsibility of any area of the River Jordan's West Bank and the Gaza Strip that Israel might relinquish.

Israel is clearly on the defensive in that matter of expansion. She first took in the 1948 war 3,000 square miles more territory than the United Nations Resolution of Nov. 29, 1947 gave the new state. Then Israel seized 400 square miles of the Golan Heights from Syria in the June 1967 war. Then Israel seized an additional 300 square miles in the October 1973 war. None of this expansion includes the seizures from Egypt in the Sinai Peninsula, or elsewhere, as well as Jerusalem, since Israel was founded.

Nazi Germany's horrible, barbaric treatment of the Jews in what Hitler called "The Final Solution" is as unquestioned as it is gasty. But, actually, at least two million French and literally countless others suffered and died in Germany and German-occupied countries during the Nazi horror.

The Palestinian Arab problem has some similarities. The Arabs that Israel evicted have, of course, the same human rights.

Long ago writer George Antonius warned of this situation: "No code of morals can justify the persecution of one people in an attempt to relieve the persecution of another. The cure for the eviction of the Jews from Germany is not the eviction of the Arabs from Palestine. The relief of the Jewish anguish cannot be accomplished at the cost of inflicting corresponding distress upon another population."

No, a poor book, a poor play, a poor argument does not become a good book, play or argument simply because you are involved.

There seems to be a strange amnesia in the human race in which it gains wisdom in one age only to cast wisdom to the winds in another generation. Seen in this perspective, history appears as a cemetery of false ideas; a storehouse of mistaken judgments that are not swept away.

Harlequin transformed the world with a touch of his slapstick. Then Harlequin laughed in his sleeve at the world's injustice, faulty judgment and disorder.

Real story behind Israeli stubbornness

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— White House and State Department officials are now so angry with Israel they no longer bother to hide their feelings.

Their unhappiness came to the surface publicly with the recent collapse of Secretary of State Kissinger's Middle East negotiations. But the Israeli intransigence, as they see it, has blocked negotiations, not just this once, but time and again.

The disillusionment with Israel, as a matter of fact, began several years back, about the time President Anwar Sadat began to signal a less-hard attitude. Three times he sent word by unofficial messengers, one a friend of mine, asking for improved relations with the United States and hinting the time was ripe for peaceful settlement with Israel.

At that time, the State Department had, through independent investigations, determined that major changes were taking place in the thinking of the upper echelons of Egyptian society—a change reflected in the attitudes of higher Egyptian officials. There was a growing feeling along the Nile that Egypt's progress as a nation was being hapered by the continual preoccupation over a war with Israel and by pan Arabism. Egypt would be better off, this thinking went, to devote its attention to the development of the nation, rather than to siphon off capital and energy in an endless war—all providing a reasonable peace settlement could be achieved.

All this led the State Department to a careful and lengthy sounding out of the Israeli government and its more influential leaders. These U.S. diplomats found no give in Tel Aviv.

A little later, a high official in this government closely tied to discussions with both Israel and Egypt, spoke bitterly and privately on the frustration he and his associates felt about what he called the hard inflexibility of the Israeli position.

It was his belief, expressed in quite some detail, that President Sadat had gone as far as he could go at that stage of the game in opening the door for compromise. Sadat, the official said, had made a major break with the past at some risk to himself.

My source said he and his associates had attempted to get the Israelis to make a comparable shift. Their efforts were in vain; they were at a dead end and he did not know what to do next.

The official was despondent. Both sides had been hard-nosed for so many years the United States had about given up hope for a solution. Here, at last, as they saw it, one side was making a breakthrough and giving a chance to an arrangement which conceivably could end the decades of warring. But compromise takes two.

It should be noted that, contrary to what Kissinger has implied, this Israeli reluctance to budge as far as American officials believe necessary, did not begin after Congress began to turn a deaf ear to Cambodian and South Vietnamese entreaties for more aid. Rather, the problem, at least as Washington officials in the know see it, began in the period when U.S. troops were in Vietnam fighting and dying to back up an ally.

The problem as outlined by State Department sources, is not limited to Israeli reluctance to give up more occupied territory without greater Egyptian concessions. Rather it is apparently an Israeli unwillingness to enter into frank wide-ranging negotiations concerning the future of Jerusalem, holy to the Arabs as well as to Jews, and the future of the West Bank of the Jordan.

More turned out to be less

By DON OAKLEY

"Sighted SUB, sank same" sums up the current recession as far as the nation's auto workers are concerned.

"Special unemployment benefit (SUB) funds at Chrysler and General Motors are expected to run dry this spring," ran the story the other day, "leaving more than 130,000 laid-off auto workers in bleak financial straits."

Clarification: Leaving them in the same financial straits as hundreds of thousands of laid-off nonauto workers who did not enjoy a year of SUB. That is, dependent upon state unemployment benefits alone.

It was nice while it lasted, and everyone admits that SUB was never intended to cope with recession-depth cutbacks in auto production but rather to tide workers over temporary layoffs, such as at model-changing time.

And tide them over it did in grand style—at up to 95 per cent of regular take-home pay, when state assistance was added.

It was hailed as a great victory for United Auto Workers bargainers when SUB was won from the industry a few years ago. Does any auto worker now maybe wish that the victory had been a little less complete—that perhaps SUB had been established at, say, 75 per cent of regular pay, or even as low as 59 per cent?

Half pay is better than no pay at all, and if SUB payments had been half the rate they were in 1974 there would now still be enough in the fund to last into 1976.

The auto workers didn't kill the goose that laid the golden egg. They just wore it out before its time.

The story of Creation, bureaucratically speaking

By ANDREW J. HINSHAW
IN THE BEGINNING God created heaven and earth.

He was then faced with a class action lawsuit for failing to file an environmental impact statement with HEPA (Heavenly Environmental Protection Agency), an angelically staffed agency dedicated to keeping the Universe pollution free.

God was granted a temporary permit for the heavenly portion of the project, but was issued a cease and desist order on the earthly part, pending further investigation by HEPA.

On completion of his construction permit application and environmental impact statement, God appeared before the HEPA Council to answer questions.

WHEN ASKED why he began these projects in the first place, he simply replied that he liked to be creative.

This was not considered adequate reasoning, and he would be required to substantiate this further.

HEPA was unable to see any practical use for earth since "the earth was void and empty and darkness was upon the face of the deep."

Then God said: "Let there be light."

He should never have brought up this point since one member of the Council was active in the Sier-rangel Club and immediately protested asking, "How was the light to be made? Would there be strip mining? What about thermal pollution? Air pollution?" God explained the light would come from a huge ball of fire.

NOBODY IN the council really understood this, but it was provisionally accepted assuming: (1) There would be no smog or smoke resulting from the ball of fire. (2) A separate burning permit would be required. And (3) since continuous light would be a waste of energy it should be dark at least one-half of the time.

So God agreed to divide light and darkness, and he would call the light, Day, and the darkness, Night. (The Council expressed no interest with in-house semantics.)

When asked how the earth would be covered, God said, "Let there be firmament made amidst the waters; and let it divide the waters from the waters."

One ecologically radical Council member accused him of double talk, but the Council tabled action since God would be required first to file for a permit from the ABLM (Angelic Bureau of Land Management) and further would be required to obtain water permits from appropriate agencies involved.

THE COUNCIL asked if there would be only water and firmament, and God said, "Let the earth bring forth the green herb, and such as may seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after its kinds, which may have seen itself upon the earth."

The Council agreed, as long as native seeds would be used.

About future development God also said, "Let the waters bring forth the creeping creatures having life, and the fowl that may fly over the earth."

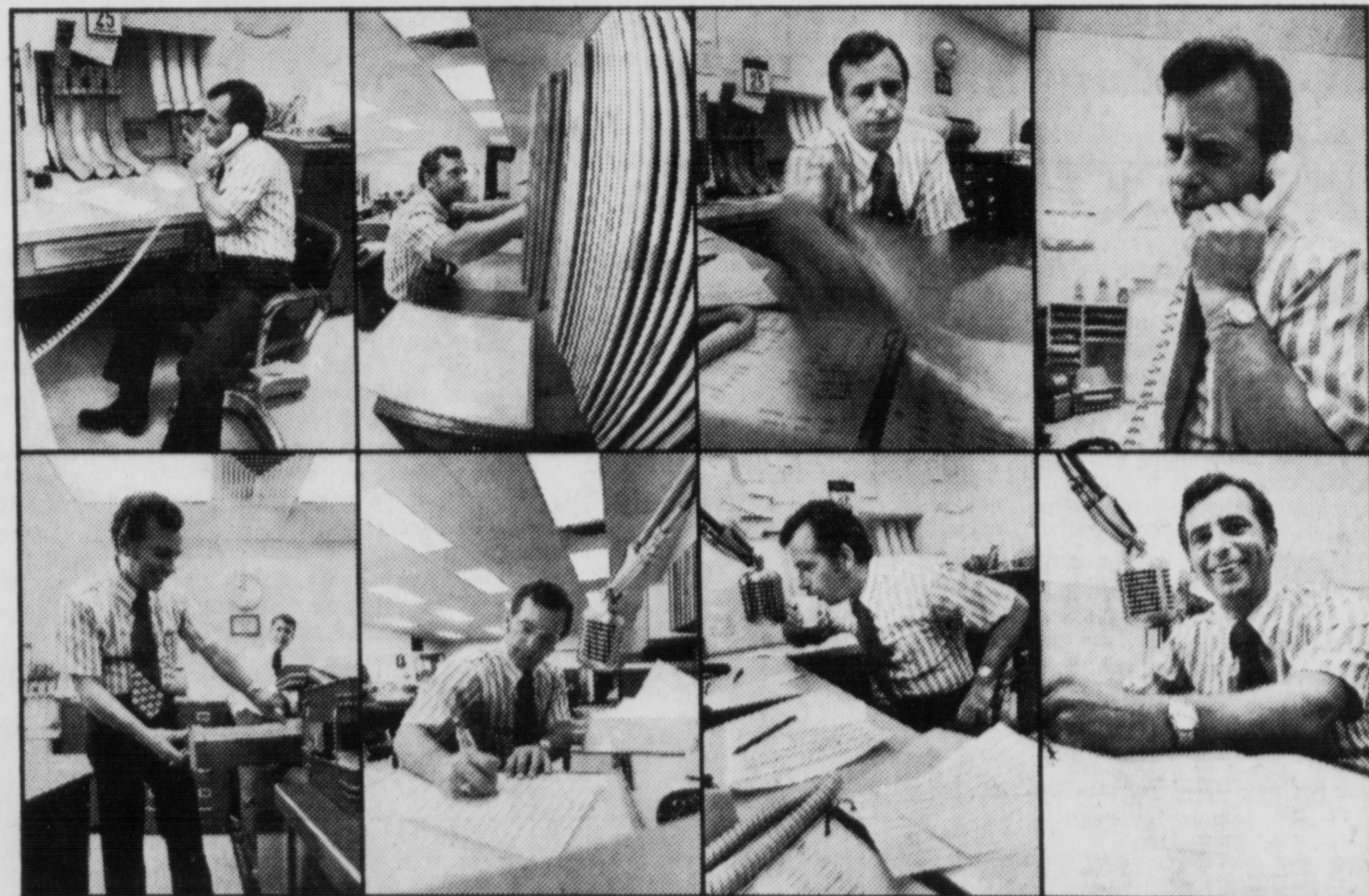

Here, again, the Council took no formal action since this would require approval of the Game and Fish Commission coordinated with the Heavenly Wildlife Federation and Audubongelic Society.

IT APPEARED everything was in order until God stated he wanted to complete the project in six days.

At this time he was advised by the Council that his timing was completely out of the question. . . . HEPA would require a minimum of 180 days to review the application and environmental impact statement. Then there would be the public hearings.

It would take 10 to 12 months before a permit would be granted.

God said, "To Hell with It!"

There's a "device" in this room that's equipped with an immense memory bank that can receive customer complaints, sort through a maze of lines and cables, then send a crew to the trouble spot, all in a matter of minutes. That's him in the striped shirt.

His name is John Fanella and he's one of the many Edison dispatchers who are ready for action 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Because when there's an emergency, it's the dispatcher who gets the call. He's the man who uses raw information and his powers of deduction to estimate where, along the thousands of miles of overhead lines and underground cable, the problem lies. He's the man who then sends out the emergency crews to track it down and solve it. And because electricity is so vital to the welfare of a city, he must do all this with computer-like efficiency—whether the problem is an overloaded transformer or a tornado.

John Fanella has been through storms so bad that emergency crews had to be called in from as far away as Colorado. He's worked through the night restoring electricity to a factory so people could go back to work in the morning. He's even sent out a man to rescue a pet cat stranded on a pole.

In a day when some companies rely heavily on the impersonal response of a computer, we're glad to have John and our other dispatchers. # Nixon would give tapes to library

By The Associated Press
Former President Richard M. Nixon says that if the courts permit, he will give the White House tapes which forced his resignation to a planned Nixon Presidential Library at the University of Southern California.

Announcement of plans to build the library to house tapes, Presidential papers and materials from other periods in Nixon's career was made jointly Sunday by the university and the former chief executive. The acquisition of presidential materials by the library is contingent upon a successful challenge to legislation requiring that all Nixon's presidential materials remain in Washington, D.C.

In other reports concerning Nixon:

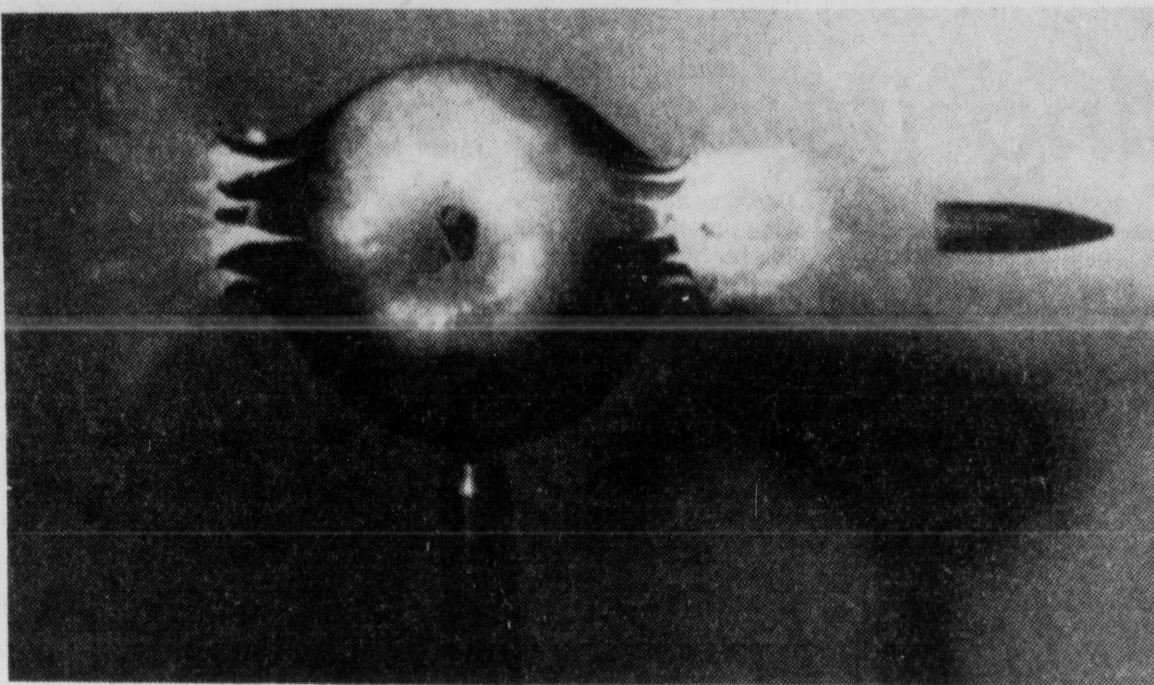

—Penthouse magazine says that for several months in 1970 a government-employed, foreign-born house painter, "apparently controlled by one of the intelligence agencies," bugged the Oval Office in the White House, perhaps without Nixon's knowledge.

—A former Internal Revenue Service auditor, Ralph F. LaCoss, says Nixon's name was expunged from tax records to cover up his underpayment of income taxes. But the former chief of IRS internal security, Francis I. Geibel, says he ordered Nixon's name removed from tax records because of leaks to the press about Nixon's returns.

—Nixon gives his wife credit for saving his life when he was desperately ill last October, according to the current issue of McCall's magazine. Mrs. Nixon credits God and the doctors.

Final negotiations for the presidential library took place Saturday when Nixon met with USC trustees at the Palm Springs estate of Walter H. Annenberg, ambassador to Great Britain during the Nixon administration.

Percy says Israeli pullback inevitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., says he believes it is inevitable that Israel will have to make major withdrawals from occupied territory, held since the 1967 war with Arab countries, and such action should be taken quickly.

Percy said in a report to the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sunday that Israel will have no peace or security until Israeli forces withdraw from most of the territory.

The senator added, "Egypt and Syria are no more likely to passively or permanently forfeit that land than Israel would if regional positions were reversed."

Percy, a committee member, reported on his 23-day, 12-nation trip through the Middle East in January.

While suggesting the withdrawals on Israel's part, he said the Arab nations should exert as much influence as possible to end Palestinian terrorist raids into Israel.

Phaseout of oil controls sought

CHICAGO (AP) — An oil industry newspaper says the National Oil Jobbers Council has tentatively proposed phasing out federal controls on petroleum allocation and pricing.

The Monday edition of Platt's Oilgram says a committee of the council recommended the action in a report not yet publicly released.

The council represents 12,000 distributors of gasoline and heating oil nationwide.

Oilgram senior editor Herbert Hugo said the jobbers want a return to a free marketplace situation, since they feel government intervention spurred by the 1973 fuel shortage is no longer needed. They believe prices will fall if the controls are removed, he added.

The jobbers' plan calls for a three-year phaseout when the Federal Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973 expires later this year.

The act governs fuel allocations to petroleum dealers and has involved the government in almost every phase of fuel distribution and pricing. Under it, refiners can raise the cost to jobbers only by the increase in price since the base rate of May 15, 1973.

The newspaper quoted the council report as saying, "There exists today and for years to come a worldwide surplus of crude oil and refining capacity. Present estimates indicate more than 12 million barrels a day of crude producing capacity isn't being used due in part to the global economic slowdown but even more attributable to conservation caused by high oil prices."

The report went on to say, "Evidence indicates that petrodollar recycling is working satisfactorily and that the U.S. balance of payments is reasonable."

State EPA dragging its feet, some critics say

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, ordered by law to pursue those who foul the air and water, is dragging its feet, some critics charge.

While enmeshed in a web of federal and state regulations, standards and bureaucracy, the IEPA is supposed to make sure that industries, businesses and communities keep their pollution within acceptable limits.

It may do this by asking a company to comply with regulations or by taking them to the Pollution Control Board, the state's environmental court, and forcing them to comply.

EPA Director Richard Brice-land's statements on pollution pull no punches.

"This must end," he says. "Water pollution can and should be stopped in Illinois."

"The Illinois EPA will not tolerate such behavior," he says.

But critics of the EPA raise these allegations:

—The agency chooses to prosecute the more simple permit cases rather than develop a substantive case against a polluter that could result in a higher penalty assessed by the Pollution Control Board.

—The EPA is taking fewer pollution cases to the PCB although it has been getting more money for enforcement.

—Small polluters are taken to the PCB while the largest companies continue to pollute.

"Our feeling is that the EPA isn't doing enough," said Dennis Adamczyk, director of environmental research in the Chicago office of Citizens for a Better Environment.

"The types of cases they go after are mostly permit cases," he said. "These kinds of cases are extremely easy. The EPA is getting $900,000 a year for air pollution enforcement. They have a lot of money floating around there to do the kind of things they should be doing."

The permit system is the method by which the EPA hopes some day to have control over every source of pollution in the state.

Permits are required, for example, for the construction and operations of pollution control equipment, for industries that dump wastewater into a stream or river, or for the grocery store that operates an incinerator.

In order to successfully prosecute a permit case, the EPA merely has to show the board that the defendant is a source of some kind of pollutant and that he doesn't have a permit.

According to records, the PCB tends to be more lenient in those cases where it finds that only the absence of a permit is involved.

For example, the EPA charged the Chrysler Corp. Belvidere plant with violating numerous air pollution regulations and also operating emission sources and air pollution control equipment without the necessary permits.

Only the permit violations were upheld and on July 25 the PCB fined Chrysler $500.

On the other hand, the EPA filed a substantive complaint of water pollution against Goffrey Hughes, operator of a sewage treatment facility run in connection with rental buildings and trailers called Crab Orchard Estates in Williamson County.

Goffrey, 70, was fined $750.

"The permit system is the chief way of enforcing compliance," said Del Haschemeyer, assistant to the EPA director. "We are referring a higher percentage of permit cases than normal, due in part to the feeling that the permit system needed some credibility."

"Pursuit is relatively simple, a good deal more simple than trying to prove numerous technical violations in terms of emissions. We can do it. But to do it we have to commit a higher percentage of manpower."

For the most part, that's a highly inefficient way to go."

Haschemeyer said the best way to control pollution is "voluntary compliance" — notifying the polluter and asking him to take steps to rectify the situation.

"The most efficient way is to get a compliance man to call the polluter on the phone and tell him what is wrong," Haschemeyer said. "The least efficient way is a full blown law suit."

Richard Kates, a Chicago attorney who heads a coalition of groups known as the Clean Air Coordinating Committee, said both methods for achieving compliance are valid.

"It's my feeling there is a lack of enforcement cases," he said. "But they are talking with people. That does work, providing they are forceful and follow through."

Adamczyk contends that not enough cases are brought to the PCB. His conclusions are contained in a 22-page study of the EPA which was released last month.

The study included results of a survey of EPA files in Chicago on six major sources of pollution in the northeastern Illinois area.

"The review discovered that in at least three cases, major violations of air pollution regulations have occurred and continue to occur," the report said. "It is most significant that there was no indication within these files of subsequent action taken by IEPA to notify the violator or to initiate enforcement action."

A "vigorous enforcement program" was promised by the IEPA when it made application last June for federal anti-pollution funds, according to the CBE's report.

Yet in recent years, the IEPA has taken fewer and fewer polluters to the PCB, although the state and federal money available for air pollution enforcement has increased, the report said.

"This certainly must raise serious questions as to the efficiency and enforcement effectiveness of the IEPA," said the report.

The Pollution Control Board is authorized to fine a company up to $10,000 plus $1,000 a day for the period during which the violations occur. PCB records show the average fine has dropped from $5,386 in fiscal 1971 to $2,394 in fiscal 1974.

In one case, the IEPA prosecuted a Jefferson County man for burning several junk automobiles. The man was fined $25.

"There are always mitigating circumstances," said Roy Harsch, administrative assistant to Jacob Dumelle, chairman of the PCB. "We have not had flagrant cases."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-637: Patrick M., aged 19, was a poor boy in Buffalo, N.Y.

"Dr. Crane," he recently confessed, as he asked to register with our Scientific Marriage Foundation (SMF), "I fell in love with a lovely coed at the University of Buffalo.

"But I am still a bachelor at my present age of 43.

"Yet I wanted to marry that girl and she was madly in love with me, too.

"However, she came from a wealthy family and was totally unaccustomed to poverty or pinching pennies.

"So I realized she could never remain happy with me for very long.

"Despite her tearful pleading and my own heartache, I finally broke our engagement.

"And by waiting tables, doing janitorial work and other odd jobs, I graduated from college.

"Then I headed out here to California, where I have been unusually successful.

"In fact, I now am worth half a million dollars, so am well able to marry and support a wife.

"So could the SMF introduce me to an attractive Catholic girl, about 30 to 35 years of age, who would like to have a family and be a happy housewife?"

Dollar-Dangers

$$$$$ often are stumbling blocks to happy marriage, as in this case.

For many wealthy parents overly indulge their children by furnishing them their own sports cars, plus summer tours of Europe or South America, and membership in swanky Country Clubs.

"Dr. Crane," such misguided fathers often exclaim, "I had to pinch and save and slave to become a success.

"Meanwhile I was denied a pony and a bicycle, plus my own car and other luxuries that my classmates enjoyed.

"So I never want my daughter to suffer from lack of a happy childhood!"

Alas, that well intentioned paternal coddling later prevents happy marriages, as in Patrick's first romance.

Or, if such weddings occur,
the wealthy girl is unable to live on her struggling young husband's pay check.

So she gets him deeper and deeper in debt till her father or mother makes her a "remittance wife" by sending her a big cash allowance to supplement her husband's meager earnings.

This embarrasses the husband until he grows irritable, for his pride is deflated by his dependence on his father-in-law.

Virile, independent American boys resent such cash subsidies, so they quarrel with their young wife and angrily "bite

the in-law hands that feed them."

Then the wife defends her parents and accuses her mate of ingratitude.

As they quarrel, their romantic verve dwindles, so they sleep in separate beds or one of them may even move into the guest bedroom.

Parents, regardless of your wealth, PLEASE don't spoil the fun of young couples by eliminating their need to budget and skimp and learn how to purchase day-old bread or take advantage of other food bargains.

Indeed, it is our deprivations in childhood that usually make us successful in adulthood, so be grateful for childhood poverty!

Send for my "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and rear self-reliant, non-divorcing children!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send

Food for Americans

Chicken scores another winner

By AILEEN CLAIRE

Chicken remains an international favorite and lends itself to a variety of dishes. In France, a chef may insert truffles under the bird's skin and roast it. In Spain, it often turns up in a paella. Italians enjoy chicken with garlic and tomatoes, and the Chinese savor chicken and serve it with crisp vegetables. Americans love their fried, roasted and creamed chicken. A complete dish features a Chicken Amardin with Rice Ring. This makes a good Sunday dinner meal when served with a fresh vegetable salad.

CHICKEN AMARDIN WITH RICE RING

- 3 cups chicken stock (reserved from Simmered Chicken)
- 3 cups light cream
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 pounds mushrooms, sliced
- 2-3 cups flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 6 cups cubed cooked chicken
- 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds

Combine chicken stock and cream; reserve. Melt butter over low heat. Add mushrooms and cook, stirring occasionally, 10 minutes. Add flour; stir to a paste. Stir in chicken stock mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in salt, pepper sauce, chicken. Heat to serving temperature. Turn into Rice Ring; sprinkle almonds on top. Makes 12 servings.

SIMMERED CHICKEN

- 3 broiler-fryer chickens (2 1/2 pounds each), whole or cut in serving pieces
- 4 cups water
- 3 small onions
- 6 celery tops
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 teaspoons monosodium glutamate
- 2 teaspoons salt

Put chicken in large kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water and remaining ingredients. Cover. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 1 hour or until tender. Remove from heat; strain stock and reserve. Remove meat from bones in as large pieces as possible.

RICE RING

Press 12 cups hot cooked rice into 12-cup ring mold. Turn out on large platter.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We have two grown sons (mid-20s) who could hardly wait to leave home and get away from their square parents. They wanted complete freedom to do their own thing. So off they went with our assurance that we loved them and they could always come home if things got rough.

That was five years ago. They have come home several times, separately, and a couple of horrible times when their "homecoming" coincided. The first time they returned we were glad to see them—relieved that they were O.K. True, they brought their lifestyles with them—TV from midnight 'til dawn and sleeping past noon. They spent hours on the phone (including long-distance which we paid for). We finally insisted they get jobs, but both boys were highly insulted when we suggested that they contribute something to the food bills. Eventually they took off again.

To date they've been home four times after having traveled all over the U.S., holding some good jobs but quitting when they became bored with the straight life. They are both home at present, sponging off Mom and Dad.

We are sick of it. We never thought we could ever say to our own sons, "Keep moving. We can't stand your freeload any longer." But we DO feel this way and it's killing us. We thought we raised our sons to stand on their own two feet—church, paper routes, jobs after school and savings accounts. We tried to set a fine example by being good citizens. But something didn't take. What's the answer, Ann?—The Old Folks at Home (Columbus, Ohio)

Dear Folks: What's the question? Should you feel guilty because you've told your sons the free hotel is no longer operating? Forget it!

Your big mistake was not establishing the ground rules after the first "homecoming." To allow grown men to watch TV all night and sleep 'til noon doesn't square with the way they were raised.

Now that the safety net has been removed, your sons will have to make it on their own or else. Home can be a port in a storm, once, but to let grown men feel they can fall in and freeload whenever they get bored working is a very destructive and crippling mechanism. Would you believe some parents use this technique to keep their kids tied to them forever?

Dear Ann Landers: I am 36 years old, considered attractive and am normal in every respect. My husband is 39. I admire him as a person and am very thankful that he has given me two lovely daughters, but—I would appreciate it if he didn't make any more sexual demands on me. In case you are wondering if I have another love interest, let me assure you I have not. I spend most of my time at home cooking, baking, cleaning and sewing for the girls. My husband is a great reader of books. He is average-looking, neat about his person and never goes anywhere at night without me. We have a nice marriage—no fights.

I guess what I'm asking is this: Is it all right for me not to want any more sex? Please give me your opinion.—Don't Need It

Dear D.N.I.: It's all right with ME. What does your husband say? If he's content, you have no problem. If he complains, however, you'd better see a doctor and find out why at 36 you have no sex drive. It could be physical. And if it's psychological, you'd better look into THAT.

Concert at Sauk Valley College

Three soloists and three performing groups will present a program at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at Sauk Valley College, which will conclude the third season by the Illowa Chamber Orchestra.

Charles Abplanalp, violinist and concertmaster of the Augustana College Symphony Orchestra, will perform the first movement of the Viootti Concerto No. 22 with the Illowa Orchestra, and Robert Ludden, baritone, and Norma Hazen Hoffman, mezzo soprano, both of Sterling, will join the orchestra in a presentation of Gian Carlo Menotti's dramatic cantata, "The Death of the Bishop of Brindisi." They will be assisted by the Sterling-Rock Falls YMCA Boys' Choir and the Sauk Valley College-Community Chorus.

The program will also include an anthology of fanfares for brass and percussion commissioned in 1942 by the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra. The ten short fanfares were written by 10 different American composers, and the most famous is Aaron Copland's "Fanfare for the Common Man."

Approximately 80 performers from a six-county area will participate in the concert, according to Robert Clifton Whipple, orchestra conductor, and tickets will be available at the college at 3 p.m. Sunday.

ELASTICITY What gives the s-t-r-e-t-c-h to Mozzarella cheese? It's a combination of butter-fat added to the cheese plus kneading with water that's hot (180 degrees F.) that gives this cheese its amazing elasticity.

New look in footwear

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There's a new foundation for fashion in the Spring-Summer '75.

Used to be that the sole look in shoe soles was a flat piece of leather. Now all that's changed. The creative designers have come up with so many clever ideas that your warm weather wardrobe can get a whole new concept from, literally, the ground up.

Slip-ons Typical of this fresh innovativeness are slip-ons which take on a novel appearance with crepe soles, tie-front wedges on a base of woven rope over crepe, sandals running the gamut from dressy, heeled, traditionally soled, sling-back models to tire-tread soles to an utterly new "cradle" edge in which the foot nestles.

Even the bigger-than-ever track shoe look — now taken over by the tennis set — sports a special new science sole that's long-lasting but cloud-light. And rippled for nonskid traction.

Was all of this attention focused on the sole by the advent of the action-sole shoe, with its lower-at-the-heel, higher-in-front design? No one knows for sure. What is sure is that shoe uppers no longer have the upper hand and footwear fashion has taken on its freshest new look in years.

But speaking of uppers, it's remarkable how the swing to sturdy suede is growing. Reason: delicate, fragile old-fashioned suede is being nudged aside by brushed pigskin — pig being the second strongest leather known to man (you'll never guess what's first — kangaroo!). And manufacturers have improved on that natural endowment by a new process for unequalled stain- and rain resistance, without affecting the unique breathability of the pig's pelt.

Men's Footwear On the men's fashion footwear scene there are far more combinations than in previous seasons. Soles and heels come in all heights and shapes. Suede is big on the men's favorite shoe list as well as on the women's.

And so function now combines with fashion to give footwear '75 a big step forward. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My niece's little boy spilled half a bottle of mercurochrome on a gold-colored shag rug. She went to work on it immediately but was left with a pale pinkish circle that is very conspicuous. Is there any way to remove this stain? — EDNA

DEAR EDNA — Authorities tell us that mercurochrome stains should be handled by a professional cleaner but are more often than not impossible to remove. However, if she wants to keep trying, and with no assurance that it will work, she might use a solution of a teaspoon of a natural detergent and a teaspoon of white vinegar added to a quart of warm water. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — The carpets in our dining room and kitchen had lots of spots and my husband had the bright idea of using a window glass cleaner on the carpets as a well-known spot lifter had done no good. He sponged this on the spots and then rubbed it in with a brush and dried the areas with paper towels. Our carpets look like new and with no spots. (As always test first.) — MRS. E. S.

DEAR POLLY — One of my Pet Peeves is with the elastic in readymade garments. That in underwear and pajamas never lasts as long as the garments do. It seems the manufacturers could use a better quality. How would I put wide elastic in the waist of pajamas? — E. T. S.

DEAR E. T. S. — Elastic too wide to slip through a casing at the waist of pajama pants is best stitched to the inside with the zigzag stitch on the sewing machine. Of course, the easiest way when making new pajamas and when replacing elastic is to run it through a casing. Face or hem back the top of the pajama pants leaving an opening for the elastic. Edge stitch on the top fold, insert elastic and close opening.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — We needed a long zipper for a quilt cover and did not have one on hand that was long enough. My daughter suggested using two zippers that added up to the required length. By placing the zippers so the openings faced each other this worked just fine. — WILMA

DEAR POLLY — This winter I had a lot of trouble with the electricity in my hair brushes, especially my round styling brush. One day after washing these brushes I put them in warm water with half a cup of fabric softener, let them soak a bit and then rinsed them in clear water. This worked beautifully and there was no more static. — MARY LOU

DEAR POLLY — When cutting the heavy prickly skin off a fresh pineapple wear an oven mitt on the hand that holds the pineapple. Your hand will not get stuck or cut by these prickles. — SYLVIA

DEAR POLLY — I like to wear beads and necklaces but always had so much trouble keeping them neat and untangled. I had a man's cane so I put two brackets on my bedroom wall and laid the cane across the brackets and fastened the two ends. This gave me a great place to hang my many beads and necklaces and it really looks very pretty on the wall. — DOROTHY R.

PENCIL CURLING

Pencil curling is a helpful pre-permanent decision maker. Just wind damp strands of hair around a pencil and clip it to hold. In about 10 minutes the hair can be taken down and combed into place. It's an easy way to figure out how you want your permanent wave styled.

COPING

Maternity benefits on the rise

By JOANNE KOCH

When I asked Swedish-born Anne if new mothers have an easier time in Sweden than here, she laughed. In Sweden, she told me, a pregnant woman's job must be held open for at least six months. An expectant couple is entitled to six months leave with full pay, divided any way they choose. The father might take two months and the mother three, either before or after the birth of the baby.

If she wishes to go back to work after her baby is born, the mother living in Sweden has several options. Excellent infant day care centers are available or a "day mother" can be hired with over half of the cost picked up by the state. Swedish employers must provide a certain number of part-time jobs so that mothers or fathers who wish to spend part of their time at home are not forced into low-paying, unskilled jobs.

While the U.S. is way behind Sweden in maternity benefits, we are making progress.

Public school teachers can no longer be forced to take maternity leaves as soon as they're in their fifth month, according to last year's Supreme Court decision (Wetzel vs. Liberty Mutual). Surveys show that two-thirds of the country's schools are eliminating these mandatory pregnancy leaves.

In offices, banks, stores and classrooms, pregnant women are continuing to punch those time clocks right up to the ninth month. Aside from those special cases, such as the telephone installer-repairer in her eighth month who couldn't get her arms around the telephone pole, even women working at strenuous jobs are continuing until a brief time before delivery.

One feminist has claimed that "a woman who has a baby deserved disability pay just as much as a man who has a hernia." The Equal Employment Opportunities Commission has urged that pregnancy be treated as a temporary disability when it comes to computing benefits. But many insurance companies and employers disagree. Even the courts vary.

An important California case (Aello vs. Geduldig) held that pregnancy is different than other disabilities because the woman has chosen it and she is healthy. Other decisions have supported pregnancy compensation, and some (significantly Gilbert vs. General Electric) are still undecided.

Judith Lonnquist, national legal vice president of N.O.W., hopes that passage of the Equal Rights Amendment will finally insure coverage of maternity in all cases.

Until then, she gives us these rules of thumb. If maternity coverage is an employment benefit, the insurance company must pay the same percentage for maternity hospitalization as they would for other hospital bills. But be careful. There are no laws covering private policies. Many of them still cover only $300 of a $1,000 delivery bill. If pay is received for other types of leaves, the benefits must apply to maternity leaves, according to Miss Lonnquist.

We're still a long way from Sweden, but let's raise our glasses of milk and say "Skol" to those striving to give working mothers a fairer shake.

New officers elected by Questers Nachusa Chapter

New officers of the Questers Club Nachusa Chapter elected at a recent meeting with Mrs. Clarence Wilson include Mrs. Verne Johnson, president; Miss Evelyn Roberts, vice president; Mrs. Orville Heckman Jr., secretary, and Mrs. Laurence Morris, treasurer. The new officers were presented by Mrs. Olin Hall, chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. John A. Bothe, acting president, conducted a business session when plans were announced for the Questers National Convention to be held Sunday through Wednesday in Springfield. Representing Nachusa Chapter will be Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. William McEvoy and Mrs. Elwood Cruse. Club members will provide cookies for the hospitality room and items for an antique auction sale.

Program

Mrs. Wilson presented the evening's program on "Doll Houses and Doll Furniture." She stated that some historians believe that the doll house originated in Germany, and others think it had its beginning in Holland. It is possible that some day an archeologist will discover a doll house in an ancient Greek, Roman or Egyptian tomb. Until it happens, a doll house made in 1558 in Germany appears to be the oldest. It was ordered by Duke Albrecht of Bavaria for his daughter. The court box maker, a painter and two locksmiths were paid many pieces of gold to make the splendid doll house. It was four stories high, and contained 17 doors, 63 windows, a kitchen, bathroom, parlor, bedrooms, courtyard and an orchard. On the third floor was a ballroom, and the top floor housed a chapel. The Duke eventually placed the house in his art collection, and it is believed that it was lost in a fire.

A collection of old German doll houses is displayed in a museum in Nuremberg, and Dutch doll houses are exhibited in museums in Amsterdam, Utrecht and The Hague.

English doll houses of the 18th and 19th centuries were designed by architects, and the earliest existing American doll house is one originally owned by the Homans family. It is presently displayed in the Van Cortlandt Museum in New York City, and it is four feet high and includes two stories, an attic, four rooms and two fireplaces with hooded chimneys.

A Victorian doll house in the New York City Museum has eight rooms furnished with black walnut furniture and carpeted with a floral brussels carpet. Furnishings include a walnut piano, lamps, empire chairs, a mantel clock and Staffordshire miniatures. The kitchen, equipped with an iron stove, iron pots and pans, is connected to a servants' room.

A doll house at the Children's Museum in Boston, Mass., has a dumb waiter which operates from the kitchen to three rooms above, and one of the most historical doll houses is one formerly owned by Rutherford B. Hayes. It was made by a Baltimore carpenter, George C. Brown, in 1878, and it is typical.

ly Victorian with a cupola and "gingerbread" trim.

Miniature Antiques Interest in doll houses decreased following the Victorian era, but in the past 10 years miniature antiques have become collectors' items and interest has grown in old doll houses.

Mrs. Kenneth Grobe attended the meeting as a guest, and a social hour included refreshments served by the hostess.

Mrs. Bothe was announced as hostess for the chapter's May meeting.

Jim: "I watched a young, up-and-coming good bridge player chuck the defense of today's hand. He signalled with his ten of spades at trick one. Declarer let West's queen hold the trick. West didn't have a second spade to lead and declarer had time to set up dummy's diamonds and secure ten tricks."

Oswald: "I'm sure he was young, but I can't go for that up-and-coming good bridge player designation. Didn't he see that it was up to him to put his king of spades right on his partner's queen?"

Jim: "He did see it. The moment his partner shifted to a club, he turned to me and said, 'I guess you think I'm a trifle worse than a normal halfwit.'"

Oswald: "If he saw it himself and was ready to blame himself that quickly, there is plenty of hope for him. Young players as well as some old players tend to play carelessly. If this hand teaches him to be particularly careful in the early play there is plenty of hope for him to get into the expert class."

Jim: "I think he will. I remember you taught me that the way to improve was to be as hard on myself as possible." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

SPRINGMAID: AN AMERICAN TRADITION IN WEISE COUNTRY

Founded in 1888, the Springs family company grew from a small South Carolina textile plant.

Springs Mills, founded in 1888 in Fort Mill, South Carolina, is one of America's oldest and largest textile manufacturers. From its founding, Springs Mills grew rapidly, and in 1933, a group of small South Carolina textile plants controlled by the Springs family were consolidated to form The Springs Cotton Mills, basis for the present company. Elliot White Springs, grandson of the company's founder, headed Springs from 1931 to 1959. A World War I flying ace and Roaring Twenties author, Elliott White Springs modernized the plants, expanded into packaged consumer textiles, and brought Springs to national renown. Despite Springs Mills world-wide growth, the company bolsters the true spirit of American tradition, by continuing to house its headquarters in Fort Mill, South Carolina, where Springmaid textile fashion innovations continue to be produced for you.

Hectic schedule in legislature called 'madness'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The hectic two-week schedule planned by the Illinois General Assembly for this week and next is called "madness" by some lawmakers.

Nevertheless, the House plans six straight working days this week, a day off on Sunday and then six more work days.

The Senate schedule calls for sessions Monday through Friday of both weeks and nighttime committee meetings on nearly every day.

Both houses are struggling to cope with the more than 4,000 bills which have been introduced so far this year.

Under joint House-Senate rules, lawmakers have only until May 2 for committee discussion of the bills introduced in their chamber, and lawmakers are rushing bills through committees to meet this deadline.

Some legislators in both parties, however, have complained that because of the huge number of bills and the rush to hear them all in a short time few measures are receiving proper consideration.

"This is madness," Rep. Philip Collins, R-Calumet City, said Friday.

Other legislators who agreed with Collins urged House Speaker William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, to abandon the deadline and allow more time for committee hearings.

Redmond refused, however, saying that even if the House voted to extend the deadline the Senate would be unlikely to agree to change the joint rule.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce issued a statement during the weekend urging the General Assembly to give "careful and full consideration" to every bill.

"The massive flow of bills into the legislative process within the past week should be a cause of great concern to all of us, particularly in light of newly announced rules for scheduling public hearings and moving all measures out of the house of origin within the next few weeks," said chamber President Lester W. Brann Jr.

Brann noted that, "If the proposed schedule is adhered to, each house of the General Assembly will have to act on more than 200 bills a day, working seven days a week from now until May 2, if the deadlines are to be met."

Action is expected sometime this week on a controversial measure introduced by Rep. Thomas J. Hanahan, D-McHenry, which would establish collective bargaining procedures for public employees.

The bill would give teachers and others the right to strike if contract negotiations broke down. It has been criticized during numerous floor debates for this and for another provision which might require union membership under some contracts negotiated between unions and governmental units.

Hanahan sought a vote on his measure last week, but action was delayed by the House leadership.

Youth workshop is labeled success

The second Youth Workshop for the Sauk Valley area took place at Sauk Valley College recently. This year's workshop was sponsored jointly by the Department of Corrections, Juvenile Division, Sauk Valley College, and the Lee County Youth Service Bureau.

The day began with about 100 young people from Lee, Whiteside, and Carroll County hearing opening remarks given by Dr. George Cole, president of Sauk Valley College. Following

Dr. Cole, Shirley Goines, regional administrator for the Department of Corrections, welcomed the participants and presented a plaque to Al Hardersen, Lee County YSB director. During the presentation Ms. Goines thanked Hardersen on behalf of the Department of Corrections for the work done by the Youth Service Bureau.

Hardersen then explained that the purpose of the workshop was twofold. First, by offering young people of high school age an opportunity to discuss openly some of the concerns they had in regard to the five main topics on the agenda. That discussion was to be led by resource persons from various youth serving agencies. And secondly, this workshop was designed to assist young people in identifying problem solving models that could be tried in their own community.

The topics discussed during the workshop were: Sex education and information, drug education and information, community, schools, and interpersonal relations. Task force leaders for the groups were Cassie Raymond, Valerie Phillips, Glen Morgan, Sonny Jakobs, Phil Osborne, Robert Mulkins, Barbara Deutsch, Tom Coffey, Rick Buttin and Jim Williamson, respectively.

Following the discussion group sessions a wrap-up session was held in the Little Theatre at the college. Each group summarized the problem solving steps identified by their group and the resource people agreed to aid community groups in implementing the process within communities close to them should request to do so be made.

Overall the workshop met the two main objectives of providing a format for open discussion and giving problem solving tools to young people of the 17 high schools represented there.

Passage of utility reform urged by IVI

CHICAGO (AP)—The Independent Voters of Illinois (IVI) has urged approval of the proposed Utilities Reform Act by the General Assembly to stop what the organization considers unfair price gouging of customers by major Illinois utilities.

The IVI Sunday endorsed the 17-point bill introduced by Rep. Jack R. Beaupre, D-Kankakee. The bill calls for substantial changes in the role of the Illinois Commerce Commission in regulating telephone, electric and gas companies throughout the state.

IVI attorney Aram Hartunian said at a news conference that such changes are necessary because the objectivity of the ICC has become "tarnished."

"They (commission members) simply can't or won't be as independent of the industry they regulate as they should," he added.

Beaupre's bill also would provide telephone service at one-half the cost to persons over 65 years old who earn less than $6,000 annually. The bill also would force utilities which have overcharged customers to grant rebates.

IVI spokesman Lee J. Epstein predicted savings of millions of customer dollars if Beaupre's act is passed.

Hartunian and Epstein charged that the utilities have been passing on such costs as charitable contributions and political lobbying expenses to the consumer by including them in the operating expenses submitted to the ICC.

Hartunian pointed out that in 1973 the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that charitable contributions by utilities must come out of profits rather than operating expenses. The General Assembly later passed legislation allowing such contributions from operating expenses, but Beaupre's bill would prohibit them.

Bicentennial Essay Contest response good

SPRINGFIELD — Early response indicates that many thousands of Illinois grade and high school students will participate in the Bicentennial Essay Contest, which is being sponsored by Michael J. Howlett, secretary of state.

Entries of 150 to 200 words on the theme "What is the Spirit of '76?" are being received by principals throughout the state. Deadline for essays is June 1.

Contest competition will include three divisions: Red, grades one through four; white, grades five through eight; blue, grades nine through 12.

"We hope that all of our eligible school children enter this contest," Howlett said. "This is one way they can express themselves individually about our heritage, country and the significance of next year's Bicentennial."

Contest guide instructions for teachers have been mailed to public, parochial and private schools. Principals have been asked to select the two best essays in each division under their supervision and forward to Secretary Howlett in Springfield.

Sub-committees in each of the 24 Congressional districts from the news media will judge all entries in their respective districts. They will select the best essay in each division and the final 72 essays will go to Secretary Howlett's Bicentennial Committee.

This panel, which selected the winners in the Bicentennial License Plate design contest last year, will narrow the competition to the best essay in each division. From the final three, a grand champion will be named this fall with a $1,000 educational savings bond award. The two runners-up will receive $500 bonds.

Business, professional and civic leaders serve on the Bicentennial committee, headed by James L. O'Keefe, a Chicago attorney. Vice Chairman is Thomas V. King, general manager, Merchandise Mart, Chicago.

Sauk Valley splits

SAUK VALLEY— Jerry Janssen drove in four runs with a triple, single and bases-loaded walk to help the Sauk Valley Redmen take the second game 9-4 and gain a split for the day in a junior college baseball doubleheader, here, Sunday against Illinois Valley. The visitors took the opening game 10-7.

Illinois Valley jumped to a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning of the nightcap on doubles by Jim Pytel and Bill Coutts, plus a single by Terry Ramsa, but the Redmen rallied to knot the game in the bottom of the frame.

Gary Stewart and Craig Robinson walked before Janssen tripled. John O'Brien then singled in Janssen. Sauk Valley pushed three more runs across in the second as Robinson, Janssen and O'Brien each walked with the bases filled.

The Redmen put the game on ice with another trio of tallies in the sixth as Stewart walked, Robinson tripled, Janssen singled and Doug Mitchell singled. The last three picked up an RBI each. Jim Kenney picked up the win by striking out four and walking only two.

Stewart scored three runs after picking up a quartet of walks and being hit by a pitch. In the first game, Sauk had a 6-1 lead before Illinois Valley erupted for eight runs. The Redmen got a run in the first as Randy Ellmaker walked and Janssen singled after two sacrifices.

Robinson drove in two runs with a single in the four-run fourth before the visitors rallied. O'Brien and Rico Wells doubled for the Redmen. Steve Sheffler was the loser in relief of Kenney. Janssen, who batted .189 last season, is currently hitting .467 with 14 RBIs after 11 games for the Redmen, with seven singles, four doubles, a triple and two home runs to his credit.

Sauk Valley, now 6-6 for the season, goes to Kishwaukee for a doubleheader today before returning home for a twinbill against Black Hawk.

Hill is favorite in Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)— Way back in 1897, when the first Boston Marathon was run, there were 15 entries. And marathon officials were all smiles as John J. McDermott ran and walked to victory, covering a short route in two hours, 55 minutes, 10 seconds.

The starting field expanded gradually each year after the first run, and the route was extended for 24 1/2 miles to the official marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards. Up until a decade ago, the starting field was only 250.

Then the jogging fad took hold. The field grew by leaps and bounds. Little did the founders of the marathon know what they would leave to succeeding officials, other than a legacy.

Despite strict regulations, requiring an entrant to certify he has run a marathon in 3 1/2 hours or less, the Patriots' Day run from Hopkinton to Boston has grown completely out of whack. There were about 2,400 entries, including 52 women, down to start at high noon today in the 79th annual classic. The traditional laurel wreath and a solid gold sunburst medal awaited the winner. There were trophies for the next nine finishers, and medals for the next 90.

Just three trophies were reserved for the women, running a special race within a race among themselves. Every other official starter hoped to receive a certificate, for finishing within the 3 1/2-hour timing period, or merely a bowl of beef stew.

"This has become a bloody disgrace," said John Semple, an entrant for many years until he retired to become Race Director Will Cloney's top assistant. "There are just too many runners. Sure, there are many serious contenders. However, there are too many just in there to say they ran in the Boston Marathon."

Semple, of course, became a prime target of the women's lib movement a few years ago when he tried to rip an official number off the back of a runner, who entered as "K. Switzer." The runner turned out to be a shapely blonde, Kathy, now a New York publicist. Kathy's male friends warned off Semple, and her finish didn't count. However, it led the women being allowed to run officially on their own, with numbers.

Some 15 nations were represented in the field today. England's Ron Hill, a 36-year-old textile chemist from Cheshire, England, loomed as the man to beat. In his last appearance, Hill made a shambles of the field, literally sprinting to a course record of two hours, 10 minutes, 30 seconds. That was in 1970 on a cold, rainy, windy day.

Kingman is key figure

Mets take two from Cubs

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Dave Kingman is giving the New York Mets the kind of consistency at the plate that they had hoped for.

And he's giving them the kind of inconsistency in the field that they'd prayed against.

The erratic Kingman, acquired this past winter from the San Francisco Giants, won one for New York Sunday with his bat but almost lost it with his glove as the Mets took a 4-3 decision to sweep a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs.

After the Mets took an 8-6 victory in the opener, Kingman exploded his fourth home run of the young season in the second game to help New York take a 4-0 lead.

Then the thrills and spills started for Old Ironsides, reminding the fans of the Mets' eccentric teams of the early 1960s.

Relief pitcher Rick Baldwin, who was great in the seventh inning, looked awful in the ninth. He loaded the bases and then gave up a single to Jose Cardenal.

Well, it started out as a single but Kingman let it get past him for an error. As a result, three runs scored and Cardenal wound up on third with the potential tying run. At this point, Baldwin reverted to his sparkling, earlier form and nailed it down for the Mets.

John Stearns' single capped a three-run rally in the first inning and Ed Kranepool doubled home two runs in a four-run second as the Mets built a 7-0 lead and went on to beat Chicago in the first game.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3
Chris Speier's two-run single capped a three-run rally in the 13th inning, leading San Francisco over Los Angeles. Reliever Geoff Zahn walked Derrel Thomas to open the inning. Bobby Murcer then singled and both runners advanced on a wild pitch.

Gary Matthews was intentionally walked to load the bases, Zahn forced in the go-ahead run with a walk to Ed Goodson and Speier singled up the middle to drive in Murcer and Matthews.

Braves 4, Padres 3

Darrell Evans' fourth home run of the season, a two-run shot following Marty Perez' leadoff double in the ninth inning, boosted Atlanta over San Diego.

The victory salvaged one game for the Braves in the three-game series with the vastly improved Padres.

Pirates 5, Cards 0

Rookie right-hander John Denny's error helped Pittsburgh score four runs in the second inning and the Pirates went on to beat St. Louis with the aid of Ken Brett's pitching and hitting. Brett, making his first start of the season, highlighted the Pittsburgh attack with his 10th career major league homer.

Brett also spaced four Cardinal singles, walked two and permitted only two baserunners to reach third before retiring after six innings in favor of Dave Giusti.

Reds 5-6, Astros 3-7

Pete Rose slammed a two-run homer — his fourth hit of the game — with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving Cincinnati a dramatic victory over Houston in the opener of their doubleheader. Jose Cruz hit a bases-loaded triple and Milt May stroked a two-run single, helping Houston salvage a split.

American League

The Kansas City Royals are going so good these days their five-man starting rotation consists of only four pitchers.

The Royals made it five victories in a row and nine out of 10 by trimming the Texas Rangers 2-0 Sunday behind the six-hit hurling of Al Fitzmorris. But their lead in the American League's West Division was cut to 1 1/2 games when the Oakland A's swept a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 4-1 and 5-1.

Elsewhere, the California Angels trounced the Chicago

White Sox 8-4, the Boston Red Sox walloped the Baltimore Orioles 10-2, the Cleveland Indians downed the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4 and the New York Yankees whipped the Detroit Tigers 7-1.

The Royals' victory was their ninth in 11 games, the best start in the club's seven-year history.

Kansas City got its runs in the second inning against Texas' Steve Hargan, who matched Fitzmorris' six-hitter. Hal McRae doubled, George Brett walked and Fred Patek, hitting only .179 entering the game, tripled.

A's 4-5, Twins 1-1

Dave Hamilton, hustled into action when starter Mike Norris hurt his elbow in the first inning, combined with Jim Todd on a seven-hitter and pitched Oakland to a doubleheader sweep. Glenn Abbott stopped the Twins with a six-hitter in the opener.

The A's scored twice against rookie Jim Hughes in the first inning of the nightcap on a walk and singles by Bert Campaneris, Sal Bando and Joe Rudi. They got two more runs in the sixth on singles by Rudi and Claudell Washington, two walks and a sacrifice fly.

In the first game, the A's took advantage of three Minnesota errors to score two unearned runs. Meanwhile, Abbott held the Twins scoreless until Bob Darwin homered leading off the ninth. Loser Bert Blyleven allowed only four hits and struck out 12.

Angels 8, White Sox 4

Bruce Bochte and Dave Chalk drove in three runs apiece, helping unbeaten Nolan Ryan post his fourth victory. Ryan allowed five hits, including home runs by Ken Henderson and Jorge Orta, but walked nine and struck out only six.

The Angels jumped on Claude Osteen for two runs in the first inning on Tommy Harper's single, Bochte's triple and a double by Chalk. They added a run in the fourth on a walk, a single by Ellie Rodriguez and a squeeze bunt single by Jerry Remy. California wrapped it up with four runs in the seventh, with Jbochte providing a two-run single.

Red Sox 10, Orioles 2

Luis Tiant pitched a four-hitter, including home runs by Bobby Grich and Lee May, and the Red Sox capitalized on Mike Torrez' wildness. Torrez gave up five hits, walked eight, threw two wild pitches and balked home a run before giving way to Wayne Garland in the fourth. He was charged with seven runs.

Bernie Carbo and rookie Jim Rice had two hits each for the Red Sox. Carbo scored three runs and drove in one as the leadoff batter, starting a three-run rally in the first inning with a walk. Rice had two RBI with a single in the first and another single as the Red Sox scored three more runs in the fourth.

Indians 7, Brewers 4

Home runs by Tom McCraw and Rico Carty and Frank Duffy's two-run single powered Cleveland's victory. An error and a wild pitch by loser Jim Slaton and a passed ball by catcher Charlie Moore helped the Indians score five times in the second inning.

John Ellis reached on Slaton's error, Charlie Spikes walked and both runners moved up on the passed ball. Ellis scored on Slaton's wild pitch and Spikes moved to third. One out later, Jack Brohamer walked and stole second and then Duffy singled to center, scoring Spikes and Brohamer. Slaton retired another batter before McCraw hit his first home run of the season.

Yankees 7, Tigers 1

New York erupted for six runs against rookie Vern Ruhle in the seventh inning, two on Ed Herrmann's tie-breaking pinch double and three on a homer by Ron Blomberg, and defeated Detroit behind Rudy May's three-hit pitching. Bobby Bonds homered for the Yankees' first run.

Maple Leafs die

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was a do-or-die weekend in the National Hockey League playoffs. The New York Islanders did and the Toronto Maple Leafs died.

The Islanders, down three games to none in their quarterfinal series with the Pittsburgh Penguins, took the series back to Pittsburgh for Tuesday night's fifth game with a 3-1 triumph in Sunday afternoon's nationally televised contest.

"We had nothing to lose," said Islanders right wing Billy Harris. "We just said, 'Let's go out and show those guys what we can do.'"

The Philadelphia Flyers completed their sweep of the Maple Leafs with a 4-3 victory in overtime Saturday night.

"We don't get paid playoff money by the game," offered Flyers defenseman Andre Dupont. "So why take this thing back to Philadelphia?" With that thought in mind, Dupont converted a pass from Dave Schultz at 1:45 of overtime and started the Maple Leafs' summer vacation.

In the weekend's other Stanley Cup action, the Montreal Canadiens took a 3-1 lead in their series with a 4-0 triumph over the Canucks at Vancouver Saturday; and the Buffalo Sabres made it 3-1 against the Chicago Black Hawks with a 6-2 triumph at Chicago Sunday night.

Islanders 3, Penguins 1

The Islanders know well that no team has lost the first three playoff games and come back to win a series since the Maple Leafs did it to the Detroit Red Wings in the 1942 Stanley Cup finals.

"I wasn't around in 1942," said Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin. "But you can't win four in a row until you win the first one. We won the first one, so we'll see what happens."

Third-period goals 39 seconds apart by rookie Clark Gillies and veteran Jean-Paul Parise broke a 1-1 tie and sent the Islanders to triumph. Andre St. Laurent scored a power play goal for New York in the first period, then Bob Kelly gave the Penguins a temporary tie with a power play score in the second period.

The odds are with the Penguins. They have lost only once in the last 33 games at their Civic Arena home.

Sabres 6, Black Hawks 2

"The team wanted to win and when we get a good effort, there are not many teams that can beat us," said Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith of his Sabres, who can move into the semifinals with a victory at Buffalo Tuesday night.

"I'd say we're in the driver's seat now," said Smith. "And we'll be sky high Tuesday night at home."

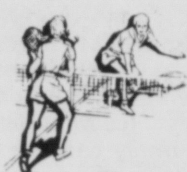

Rick Martin, Gil Perreault and Rene Robert scored in the third period to break open what had been a tight game. Jim Lorentz, Pete McNab and Dan Gare had the other Buffalo goals.

Grant Mulvey and Phil Russell scored for the Black Hawks, who could not capitalize on four power plays in the second period.

Quarterback Mitch Anderson was the only Northwestern player drafted in the 1975 pro football lottery. Anderson was selected in the 17th and final round by the Atlanta Falcons. While at Northwestern, Anderson practically rewrote the record books in his passing categories. He holds six Wildcat records, including most touchdown passes for a career. He ranks second in both completions and yardage on the all-time Northwestern list.

Meets moved

All track meets scheduled at Dixon High School this week have been moved to Sauk Valley because of wet track conditions.

Tennis results

DeKALB— The Sauk Valley Redmen upped their Arrowhead Conference record to 6-1 and their season ledger to 12-1 with a 2-1 triumph over Kishwaukee, here, Sunday. Jim Weed, number one singles for the Redmen, beat Tom Zorbach 5-7, 6-1 and 6-0 while Sauk Valley number two, Randy Paisley, defeated Mark Overheng 6-1 and 6-4.

Mike Kane and Tim Huyett lost to Kishwaukee's Jim Linderman and Charles Goerlitz 6-7 and 4-6. The Redmen travel to Chicago today for a match with Oakton.

On Saturday, Sauk Valley edged Joliet 4-3 at the Westwood Tennis Complex in a non-conference match. Weed beat Jim Tomac 6-1, 6-7 and 6-2, while Paisley blanked Rico Hargis 6-0 and 6-0. Kane lost to Ron White 6-6 and 6-7. Huyett dropped a 6-3, 3-6 and 3-6 decision to Norm Russum but John O'Brien defeated Angelo DeRasso 6-2 and 6-4.

In doubles, Weed and Paisley beat Rick Stretz and Don Kazak 6-1 and 6-0. Kane and Huyett were beaten 1-6 and 1-6 by Tom Siderenko and Pete Cassen.

Frustrated McGee gets first victory

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)— Jerry McGee figured this was his week before the first shot was fired in the $125,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

"Wednesday night, I ate oysters on the half shell and the first oyster I ate, I got a pearl," an elated McGee said Sunday after ending more than eight years of frustration on the pro golf tour by capturing his first victory.

"I told Jill (his wife) this may be the week," he said. "I didn't want to mention it before today because it might have jinxed me."

McGee appeared on the verge of blowing his shot at victory when he played the front side in a fat 38, three-over-par, but regained his composure, strung together three straight birdies beginning at No. 10 and broke out of a deadlock with another birdie on 16 to win the $25,000 first prize with a 13-under-par 271 total.

The closing 70 on the 6,679-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course gave McGee a two-shot victory over Wally Armstrong, a soft-spoken 29-year-old who saw his dream of a first victory vanish with two bogeys on the final three holes. McGee said he thought he had only a one-shot edge until he saw the scoreboard as he

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like some information please. Last spring my brother, age 17, began having blinding headaches and occasional dizzy spells. As the summer wore on his headaches grew worse. He fainted several times, and he lost so much muscle control that he stumbled constantly. At times he could hardly hold his head up. His family doctor sent him to a neurosurgeon who promptly operated. The neurosurgeon removed a piece of skull bone that was pressing into my brother's spinal cord. As I understand it, the doctor said the bone was growing into his spinal cord.

I would like to know what causes this condition. How is it treated and what after effects are there, if any? My brother's health is good now. Would this condition relate to my brother being a twin?

DEAR READER—Your brother is very fortunate to have his problem correctly diagnosed and treated with no apparent damage.

The spinal cord joins the brain just as it enters the large hole in the base of the skull, the point where the vertebral column joins the skull. At this area there are many nerve tracts, like huge bundles of electrical wires, that carry the signals to and from the brain to the entire body below the head.

A bony spur rarely grows out of the skull opening and may create pressure on the spinal cord. Similarly, bone growth in the cervical spine can narrow the channel where the cord is located and cause pressure on the spinal cord.

Whenever the pressure creates symptoms, the usual and best approach is to relieve the pressure by surgery. It is a plain mechanical problem, relieved by a direct mechanical approach. If permanent nerve damage hasn't occurred before it is corrected, the patient should return to his normal state rather quickly.

Mechanical pressure in that area of the cord can affect the nerve fibers that control the opening and closing of the small arteries, the blood pressure, muscular action and almost all bodily functions. No wonder your brother had trouble.

What causes it? That is hard to say. The basis for it may have been present from birth, and, with bone growth as he grew, the condition progressed until it caused problems.

In adults, particularly after age 40, degeneration of the bones and such things as cervical arthritis lead to bony spur formations that sometimes cause pressure on the cord or nerve roots.

One of the astronauts had a narrowing of the opening in the spinal column from an overgrowth of bone in that area. He subsequently had surgery for it and apparently has had no trouble with it since. He is a well-known public figure. We debated at some length about the question of whether the opening was so small that we should not recommend him for the program. He passed and fulfilled his mission in space.
